FOREWORD.

The 1923 legislature appropriated $1,000 for the compilation of a history of the Kansas State Guard, in order to perpetuate the memory of that organization and its service during the World War. All available data has been used in the publication of this volume and it is the best that could be prepared with the limited amount of funds provided for the purpose.

The Kansas State Guard took a very important part in the world's greatest conflict. In addition to training the youth to enter the federal service, performing guard duty, and assisting the various drives to finance our combat troops, they maintained the patriotism of the communities at high ebb and inspired all civilians to revere the name of America, which was an invaluable aid to the state.

I take this opportunity to express the appreciation of the state of Kansas to the former officers and men of the State Guard who so willingly gave their time and financial assistance to protect our citizens while the National Guardsmen were on the firing line.

M. R. McLEAN,
The Adjutant General,
Kansas.

THE HOME GUARD.

Prior to 1917 the citizens of Kansas did not bestow much thought upon protecting municipal and industrial properties by organized bodies of troops. When we entered the World War the municipalities assumed that in the National Guard the state offered ample protection against sabotage and destruction of property by alien sympathizers.

Stories of espionage published in eastern papers, exaggerated through the constantly reiterated repetitions of overzealous and excitable but well-meaning patriots, soon brought Kansas to look upon any person having the slightest trace of German origin or connection with suspicion. Every community had its tales based upon its fearful imaginings of pro-German activities.

To the excited public every necessary utility was menaced with ever-present destruction by enemy aliens or German sympathizers. The peak of this war hysteria was reached in 1918. Its effects were evident, however, in many localities in the earlier days of the war.

On April 17, 1917, the State Council of Defense was organized in the Governor's office at Topeka. The object of the organization, as set out in the Council's history, edited by Prof. Frank W. Blackmar, and published in 1920, was "to mobilize all of the resources of the state for the support of the war." After organization the Council was divided into a number of departments, to one of which the Department of Public Defense was assigned the duty of organizing the Home Guards "for the protection of local property." Immediately after the meeting of the Defense Council in April, 1917, the organization of Home Guard units was begun in many communities. The first company to be enrolled was located at Kansas City, Kan., and its organization was completed in April, 1917. From this initial unit approximately 150 companies were organized throughout the state. Few, if any, of the sponsors for the Home Guard movement in the state had knowledge of military organization, and the plans adopted by the Council bore little semblance to an orderly and effective organization of a military force. It has been stated that many of those active in the original organization expressed the desire that the Home Guard be non-military in its character, and we find evidence of this intent in the instructions printed on the original blanks used for enrollment of members. These instructions stated that the Home Guard "is a civilian organization and has no connection with the military service of the state of Kansas or of the United States." Under the plan of organization adopted by the Council, the officers of each company were a commander, a surgeon, a recorder, and a treasurer. Mayors of cities of the first and second class were appointed as commanders of the units in their respective cities. In localities other than in cities of the first or second class, the sheriff of the county was appointed such commander. The other officers of the company were elected by vote of the members. The four officers named above were authorized to appoint additional officers, whose duty it was to instruct the company in military subjects, and together with the officers so appointed by them, constituted an executive committee having full charge and management of all affairs of the organization.

Other than the action taken by the Council of Defense, no official recognition was given to the Home Guard by the state, and the organization had no official state status until August 6, 1917. On August 5, 1917, civic bodies awoke to the realization that the National Guard had changed its character overnight, and was from that date a part of the army of the United States and no longer subject to orders of state officials. This departure gave impetus to the Home Guard movement in the larger cities of the state, and emphasized the needs of the organization for arms and ammunition. Five hundred Springfield rifles, cal. 45, were on hand in the state arsenal at the outbreak of the war. These guns, while in serviceable condition, were of an obsolete type, which had been issued in bygone years to the state for use of the militia. The rifles were used by a number of the Home Guard companies for drill purposes for several months. On receipt of the Russian rifles hereinafter referred to, the companies were directed to return the Springfields. In obedience to the order, 400 were received. The remainder were lost or retained by members who refused to turn them in to their company officers. Many of those returned were in unserviceable condition, badly rusted, and otherwise damaged through carelessness and neglect. An El Dorado company had rendered the guns returned by it worthless by sawing off a foot or more of every barrel; probably this was done upon the theory that the guns were longer than necessary, and carried too much gun metal.

The act of congress of June 14, 1917, authorized the issue of arms and ammunition by the government to Home Guard organizations. On September 26, 1917, the Governor forwarded a requisition to Washington for 100 rifles, ammunition, etc., for use of the Kansas City organization; this issue to be used by men on guard duty at the following industrial plants in that city: National Zinc Company, 8 men; Armour & Co., 46 men; Peet Brothers Manufacturing Company, 35 men; Kansas City Soap Company, 2 men; Ismert-Hincke Milling Company, 3 men; Thomas Ruddy Company, 6 men. This requisition was returned by the War Department with the information that the state should advise the Ordnance Department relative to the number of rifles desired for issue to the entire Home Guard of the state, the War Department desiring to act upon the needs of the Home Guard of the state as an entity. The state authorities delayed action until after the disbandment of the Home Guard. Thus the organization received no arms other than those referred to in the preceding portion of this paragraph.

The activities of the Home Guard were largely confined to weekly meetings and drills, and to individual and organization participation in patriotic movements in the various communities of the state. There was no expense incurred by the state in the organization and maintenance of the Home Guard.

By executive order dated February 15, 1918, a reorganization was effected under the designation of "The Kansas State Guard." Under the provisions of this order members of the newly created State Guard were subject to call for duty in any part of the state. For this reason many organizations of the Home Guard, whose liability for service under the original organization plan was limited to duty in the county or city in which their respective units were stationed, did not desire to reorganize and assume the enlarged obligations of service. The Home Guard ceased to function as an organization on February 15, 1918, and its members and organizations, not desiring to re-enroll in the Kansas State Guard, were considered by the state as having been mustered out on that date.

The Home Guard was a community organization, with little supervision exercised by the state. No funds were available to meet the expense of clerical hire necessary for the successful operation of a state headquarters for the organization. Such administrative work as was carried on by the state was handled as a secondary matter by state officials and employees whose principal duties lay in other directions. Few reports were required from organizations and few records of value are therefore on file in this department. Those few records, however, indicate the organization of Home Guard units in the state.

THE WYANDOTTE HOME GUARDS.

For instance, a delegation of Kansas City men called upon the Governor on August 5, 1917, with a view of securing state or government issue of arms and ammunition for the Home Guard organizations of Wyandotte county, and of obtaining for the organization official state recognition. The attorney general having ruled that under the statutes, if the organization was to function as an armed force, it was necessary that specific permission to bear arms be granted by the Governor. The conference held with the party from Kansas City led to the promulgation of the executive order of August 6, 1917, authorizing the organization of the Wyandotte Home Guards, with Harry A. Mendenhall, mayor of Kansas City, Kan., as commander. A similar executive order was issued from the Governor's office to cover the organization of each Home Guard unit in the state. By-laws, drawn by the Defense Council and approved by the Governor, were adopted as a model, after which by-laws of all Home Guard units should be patterned. A copy of the executive order authorizing the organization of the Wyandotte Home Guards, together with copy of standard by-laws adopted by the Defense Council, appear below.

EXECUTIVE ORDER.

THE STATE OF KANSAS, OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR.

To All to Whom These Presents Shall Come, Greeting:

Know YE, That inasmuch as a state of war exists between the United States of America and the German nation, whereby conditions are rendered unusual, in that the troops of the Kansas National Guard have been called and mustered into the service of the general government, thus for the time being depriving the state of the benefit of its active militia, and at the same time for the better protection and security of persons and property within the state, making necessary and advisable the organization and maintenance of constabulary forces or Home Guards in the several communities of the state.

And it appearing that a local organization of Home Guards has been formed in Wyandotte county, in the state of Kansas, in manner and form as outlined in the report of the Home Guard Committee of the Council of Defense of the state of Kansas, approved by me on June 6, 1917, which organization is designated "Wyandotte Home Guards," and in substantial compliance with the recommendations of said committee has adopted by-laws which were approved by me and filed in the office of the Adjutant General of the state of Kansas on the sixth day of August, 1917:

Now therefore, by virtue of the authority vested by law, I, Arthur Capper, Governor of the state of Kansas, reposing special confidence in the patriotism, loyalty and abilities of Harry A. Mendenhall, the duly elected and acting mayor of Kansas City, Kan., on behalf and in the name of the state, do designate him commander of Wyandotte Home Guards during the term of his incumbency of such office as mayor.

And it is ordered, That said Harry A. Mendenhall as commanding officer of Wyandotte Home Guards assume full control over and responsibility for said organization, and that he execute to the state of Kansas a bond as provided by law for the safe-keeping and proper return of all property which may be delivered into his charge as such commanding officer.

And it is likewise ordered, That said organization, Wyandotte Home Guards, be and it is hereby granted permission to exist as an independent military organization for the purposes set forth in its by-laws, but subject to the command of the Governor of the state, and to bear arms, but shall not without further permission exceed one regiment of infantry as defined in the acts of congress and the regulations of the United States Army.

It is likewise ordered, That the by-laws of Wyandotte Home Guards, as filed in the office of the Adjutant General of the state of Kansas, on August 6, 1917, be and they are hereby approved.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused to be affixed the great seal of state.

Done at the city of Topeka, Kan., this 6th day of August, A. D. 1917.

By the Governor:

ARTHUR CAPPER,

J. T. BOTKIN, Secretary of State.

The by-laws referred to in the foregoing executive order, as having been approved by the Governor, and after which the by-laws of all "Home Guard" units were patterned, were as follows:

ARTICLE I.

Home Guards may be organized in Kansas under the following rules and regulations:

Application for the organization of Home Guards in any county or city in the state of Kansas shall be made by the sheriff of the county or by the mayor of any city of the first or second class.

ARTICLE II.

The name of any organization of Home Guards shall be The _____ Home Guards. (Designate name of city or county.)

ARTICLE III.—Object.

The object of the formation of Home Guards shall be to promote, develop and foster loyalty and patriotism for flag and country; to furnish elementary military training and knowledge to its members for the purpose of enabling them to enter service in the defense of the country when called upon to do so, and to aid and assist in the federal military service locally in such matters as securing and promoting enlistments and the like, and to raise and distribute funds for the purpose; to form, constitute and act as a constabulary force in and for the county and city in which organized, for home protection, under military discipline and drill; to aid in conserving the peace; to perform service for the municipality, state and nation in the protection of property and persons; in the protection of property of the United States and the protection of supplies in course of manufacture for the United States, and the protection of transportation lines where necessary, including rights of war of railroads, bridges and the like.

ARTICLE IV.—Membership.

Every loyal male citizen over the age of eighteen years, and being a resident of the county, applying, shall be eligible to membership on making application, signing the roll and furnishing satisfactory evidence of loyalty and good character.

ARTICLE V.—Officers.

The officers of such organizations shall consist of a commander, a surgeon, a recorder and a treasurer. The commander of the organization shall be some member thereof designated by the Governor, and shall hold his office during the pleasure of the Governor. The surgeon, recorder and treasurer shall be elected for the term of one year by the members of the organization.

ARTICLE VI.—Military Instruction.

For the purpose of acquiring military training and performing military duties the officers heretofore designated in article V shall appoint military officers to organize and drill the Home Guards as required by United States Army Drill Regulations for like organizations. The officer of the organization named in article V, together with the military officers appointed by them, shall constitute an executive committee, which shall have charge and full management of all affairs of the local organization. The commander shall be chairman of this committee. When it is deemed necessary for the local defense of persons or property this organization shall be subject to the call of the Governor or the local peace officers.

ARTICLE VII.

A duplicate membership roster of the organization shall be filed with the Adjutant General of the state of Kansas.

ARTICLE VIII.

All units shall be organized in accordance with United States Army Regulations, and all drill instruction shall be in accordance with the United States Infantry Drill Regulations.

ARTICLE IX.

Regular meetings of the organizations of Home Guards shall be held at least four times each month, on such dates and at such hours and places as may be designated by the executive committee. Special meetings may be called at any time.

ARTICLE X.

Suitable by-laws for the organization and conduct of Home Guards, in substantial compliance with the above regulations, shall be prepared and adopted and submitted with the application for the approval of the Governor.

ARTICLE XI.

Attention is called to the state and federal laws prohibiting unauthorized organizations to bear arms, and emphasizing the necessity for obtaining the authority of the Governor before armed organizations can be allowed.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused to be affixed the great seal of the state.

Done at the city of Topeka, Kan., this 6th day of August, A. D. 1917.

By the Governor.

THE KANSAS STATE GUARD.

The organization of the Kansas State Guard was authorized by the Governor on February 15, 1918. During the preceding year there had existed in the state a civilian organization known as the Home Guard, a brief history of which is set out in the foregoing pages. A number of causes led to the abolishment of the Home Guard and its reorganization as the Kansas State Guard. Principal among these causes was the absence of statutory authority for the maintenance of such a force in the state. Questions relative to authority and police power of officers and organizations of the Home Guard were constantly confronting the state officials, and with no definite authority of law for the existence of the organization, these officials were often placed in an embarrassing position in solving the problems submitted to them. The control of each unit by a committee composed of civilians, whose interest in many cases was either merely passive or wholly lacking, led to dissatisfaction and inactive organizations. It was believed that through a reorganization the weak companies of the Home guard might be disbanded and the active units formed into an organization of value to the state and community.

The original draft of the reorganization plan submitted to the Adjutant General provided for the organization of two infantry regiments of twelve companies each, organization of the regiments to conform to the peace-time organization of like units of the Regular Army. Provision was made for physical examination of applicants for commission and enlistment in the new force and the rejection of those not physically qualified for active service. So far as possible, requirements for membership and commission and the obligation of the officers and enlisted men were made to conform to regulations governing the National Guard of the state as it existed prior to entry into United States service. It was desired, if possible, to establish a force which might be at some later date easily converted as a National Guard organization. The proposal to limit the number of units of State Guard to be organized, and the requirements for membership, failed to meet the approval of the Adjutant General, and a compromise plan was adopted, providing for the organization of an unlimited number of battalions and separate companies, with no requirement for membership other than that the applicant be a citizen of the United States over the age of eighteen. The organization plan finally adopted and approved by the Governor is set out in Executive Order No. 1, dated February 15, 1918, reading as follows:

STATE OF KANSAS, THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,

TOPEKA, February 15, 1918.

Executive Order No. 1.

1. Executive order of this office, bearing date of August 5, 1917, is hereby revoked, and the following substituted therefor:

2. The Kansas State Guard shall be subject to the call of the Governor for active service within the state, and shall be organized and maintained under the following conditions:

(a) OBJECT. The object of the formation of the Kansas State Guard shall be to promote, develop and foster loyalty and patriotism for flag and country; to furnish elementary military training and knowledge to its members for the purpose of enabling them to enter the service in defense of the country when called upon to do so, and to aid and assist in the federal military service locally in such matters as the promotion of enlistments; the raising and distributing of funds for military purposes; to form, constitute and act as a constabulary force in and for the state, county or city in which organized; to perform services for the nation, state or municipality in the protection of property and persons.

(b) ORGANIZATION. Authority for organization of a unit of the Kansas State Guard will be given by the Adjutant General. Whenever it is deemed advisable to organize a company or other unit of the Kansas State Guard, the sheriff of the county, the mayor of the city of the first or second class, or any reliable citizen of the county or city in which it is desired to organize such unit, shall make application to the Adjutant General for authority to organize, setting out in such application the approximate number of applicants for membership in such organization, a statement of the probable moral and financial support to be given to the organization by the community, and such other facts as will be of value in determining the advisability of the organization.

(c) DESIGNATION. If deemed advisable by the Adjutant General, units of the Kansas State Guard may be grouped into battalions of four companies. Such battalion shall be designated by number, and the companies comprising such battalion shall be designated by letters, A, B, C and D. Additional companies may be attached to such battalions for administrative purposes, such attached companies to be designated by letters, E, F, G, etc. Separate companies not comprising a part of, or attached to, a battalion shall be designated by letters A, B, C, etc., followed by the name of the county or city in which organized.

(d) MEMBERSHIP. Every loyal male citizen of the United States over the age of eighteen years shall be eligible to membership in the Kansas State Guard: Provided, That such membership shall be in a unit whose station is within the county of the applicant's residence.

(e) OFFICERS. There shall be commissioned by the Governor one Major, commanding officer of each battalion, and in addition thereto, for each battalion, one Captain (adjutant), one Captain (supply officer), and one Captain (surgeon). In each company there shall be commissioned one Captain, one First Lieutenant, and one Second Lieutenant.

(f) ORGANIZATION OF COMPANIES. It is recommended that companies be organized with the following personnel:

1 Captain, commanding.	2 Cooks.
1 First Lieutenant.	2 Musicians.
1 Second Lieutenant.	1 Artificer.
1 First Sergeant.	48 Privates.
1 Quartermaster Sergeant.
4 Sergeants.	68 Total.
6 Corporals.

(g) EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. The sheriff of the county or the mayor of the city of the first or second class in which a unit or units of the Kansas State Guard are located shall be ex officio chairman of an executive committee, which shall have charge, under supervision of the Adjutant General, of all financial and administrative affairs of the units represented on such committee.

(h) Regular meetings of each organization of the Kansas State Guard shall be held at least four times each month, on such dates and at such hours and places as may be designated by the executive committee. Special meetings may be called at any time.

(i) Attention is called to the state and federal laws prohibiting unauthorized organizations to bear arms, and emphasizing the necessity of obtaining authority of the Governor before armed organizations can be allowed.

(j) Such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this order shall be published from time to time by The Adjutant General in the form of orders, circulars, memoranda, etc.

ARTHUR CAPPER, Governor of Kansas.

The state's interest in the new organization was immediately reflected in the various communities of the state. Men active in public affairs throughout the state gave to the organization their heartiest support and encouragement. Public meetings were held in hundreds of towns of the state and scores of companies were immediately recruited. In many instances the muster-in of the new companies was made a public ceremony of importance in the community. Chambers of commerce, community clubs and similar bodies pledged their moral and financial support to the organization, and funds were raised by popular subscription for the purchase of uniforms for many companies. Notwithstanding an opinion of the attorney-general that such action was contrary to law, county commissioners in a number of counties voted public funds for purchase of equipment for units of the State Guard. Instances of this character are cited as an evidence of the enthusiasm with which the organizations were supported in many communities of the state.

In the judgment of those interested in reorganization of the Home Guard, it was believed probable that approximately fifty companies of State Guard could be organized in the state. This number of organizations was recruited within a few days after organization was authorized. The hundred mark was soon passed. In all, 281 companies of State Guard were organized, with an average membership per company of sixty-five men. It is probable that during the existence of the State Guard, from its organization on February 15, 1918, to its muster-out on November 11 of the following year, at least 20,000 men served in the organization. The numerous organizations and large personnel made it impossible for the state headquarters, with the few clerks authorized for the work, to administer the organization in the manner necessary to secure the best results. A great number of the organizations were uniformed at personal or public expense. Weekly drills, by company or battalion, were held. Men anticipating induction into United States service under the selective-service law joined the organization in order to benefit by such military instruction as might be imparted by its officers. The desire to take an active part in patriotic movements in their community induced many men to join the organization. In the public mind, every citizen was expected to become active in some war work, and the State Guard offered to many citizens the opportunity of giving public testimony of their patriotism. In peace time, an organization of this character, offering no financial returns for the time devoted to its activities, would probably have failed in the initial stages of its development. The entire character and viewpoint of the people of the state was so changed by the war that little was required to stir them into a patriotic fervor, the only outlet for which was to join some organization engaged in warlike activities.

Lack of military equipment greatly hampered the organizations in their desire to assume a military appearance and to give color to the organization's claim of being state troops. Innumerable inquiries were received at the state headquarters relative to the possibility of securing arms for the various companies. The Russian revolution left the United States ordnance department with several million military rifles on hand, manufactured under orders from the imperial government, the shipment of which had been held up pending establishment of a stable government in that country. Information having been received from the War Department that these rifles were available for issue to Home and State Guard organizations of the various states, requisition was forwarded to Washington, and 1,273 rifles, with a large quantity of ammunition, were received by the state. A few of these rifles were shipped out to two or three companies of the State Guard as trial issues. It was later decided, however, that the better policy would be to hold the remainder of the shipment in original packing cases in the state arsenal, rather than to distribute the entire lot among the organizations. The Governor had assumed responsibility for the proper care and ultimate return of the rifles to the government, and it was found after a short trial that rifles furnished the organizations were in certain cases not given the care necessary to keep them in serviceable condition. A few months after the armistice, guns in the hands of organizations were recalled, and on April 30, 1919, the entire lot was returned to the government arsenal.

On May 4, 1918, authority was received from the War Department for the organization in Kansas of two regiments of National Guard infantry. Circular letters, setting out the requirements for organization and membership in the National Guard, were mailed out to all State Guard units, it being the desire of the department to recruit the National Guard from among the units of the State Guard then existing in the state. The War Department having announced that the newly organized National Guard units would not be called for service overseas, it was considered that many of the State Guard units would probably embrace the opportunity of entering the service of the state and nation as members of a military force recognized by the government and fully equipped and maintained at state and government expense. Much to the surprise and disappointment of those interested in the organization of the National Guard, the opportunity of entering the National Guard service met with little response from members of the State Guard units. In some localities of the state in which recruiting for the National Guard was begun there was evidence of an undercurrent of antagonism on the part of officers and enlisted men of the State Guard. Of the 281 companies of State Guard there were but six companies whose entire eligible membership was enlisted in the National Guard. The remaining units were mustered out on November 11, 1919, by order of the Governor.

The activities of the State Guard were confined to participation in weekly drills, patriotic parades, assistance in Liberty Loan, Red Cross and kindred "drives," instruction of men anticipating early induction into the army, and in a few cases to the furnishing of guard details for property protection. Other than such expense as was incurred for postage and clerical hire at state headquarters, and for the transportation of rifles and ammunition referred to in a preceding paragraph, the maintenance of the State Guard was without expense to the state. The duties performed were rendered voluntarily and without pay, and such expenses as were incurred by the organization were met by personal or community contributions.

The Governor's proclamation demobilizing the State Guard was signed on October 15, 1919. Copy of this proclamation, together with copies of orders from this office providing for the closing of records and affairs of the various units, the organization's participation in the Armistice Day celebration, and the designation of the official service button, follow:

PROCLAMATION DIRECTING DEMOBILIZATION.

KANSAS STATE GUARD.

WHEREAS, There has come to my attention the very general desire on the part of the members of the Kansas State Guard for demobilization; and

WHEREAS, The cessation of the war having brought about such return to normal conditions that their services are no longer needed, I have chosen November 11, 1919, as the date upon which the demobilization of the Kansas State Guard shall be complete.

The Kansas State Guard came into existence as a voluntary organization during the war, and at a time when there were many opportunities for it to serve the state. Its presence was a guaranty against disorder that might arise in Kansas communities during the war. It gave great assistance in the various patriotic drives which were necessary during these trying periods. It stood always as an exponent of Americanism and the patriotic performance of duty. Many men subject to draft received their first training in its ranks, and went from the State Guard better prepared for the army activities because of the training and experience in this state organization. During the various celebrations in honor of the soldiers returning from overseas, the State Guard has served with dignity and effectiveness.

In giving this direction for its final demobilization, I wish to record the gratitude of the state for the splendid services which the State Guard has rendered in peculiar times. It was one of the absolutely necessary organizations of the war, and its voluntary membership gave to the duties of the organization, which were often exacting, unselfish and untiring energies.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have caused to be affixed the great seal of the state of Kansas.

Done at the state capitol, in the city of Topeka, this 15th day of October, 1919.

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS, KANSAS STATE GUARD,
THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
TOPEKA, October 17, 1919.

GENERAL ORDERS, }
No. 69. }

1. Pursuant to proclamation of the Governor, dated October 15, 1919, the commissioned and enlisted personnel of the Kansas State Guard will be mustered out and honorably discharged from the service of the state on November 11, 1919.

2. Upon receipt of this order, commanding officers of battalions and separate units will immediately ascertain and advise this office by letter as to the present commissioned and enlisted strength of their respective commands. Reports of battalion commanders will set out designation of their battalion and of the companies comprising their command, together with the commissioned and enlisted strength of each of such companies and of the battalion staff. Commanding officers of separate units will report the designation of their unit and the commissioned and enlisted strength thereof.

3. Blank muster rolls and discharges will be forwarded to the commanding officers on receipt of reports required under provisions of paragraph 2. Muster rolls and discharges will be prepared in a neat and legible manner and forwarded to this office without delay. Every effort will be made by responsible officers to insure delivery of discharges to enlisted men within thirty days after receipt thereof, at the expiration of which period undelivered discharges will be forwarded to this office, to be held subject to call of discharged men.

4. Property and funds belonging to the organizations at time of muster-out will be disposed of in such manner as may be determined by a vote of the majority of the members of the organization. Commanding officer of each unit will submit to this office a statement of property and funds belonging to his organization and the disposition made thereof. To each statement will be attached certificate signed by the company commander, certifying that property and funds of the organization was disposed of in accordance with the provisions of this order.

By command of the Governor.

1. SERVICE BUTTON. In recognition of the service, patriotism and loyalty of the Kansas State Guardsmen to state and country during the World War, I hereby designate a service emblem for the Kansas State Guard, to be known as the "official service button of the Kansas State Guard," a description of which follows:

2. DESCRIPTION. The button is circular, five-eighths inch diameter. The center is a sunflower slightly raised, in bronze, which represents the state of Kansas. Surrounding the sunflower is an inlay of blue enamel; through this enamel there appears the words, in gold, "State Guard, World War." These words and the sunflower taken together symbolizes the state troops and the particular service rendered by them. The rim is beveled and composed of gold. The button consists of two pieces with screw fastener, and is made for the lapel.

3. BY WHOM WORN. This official button may be worn by all members of the Kansas State Guard, whether honorably discharged or still remaining in the service.

4. HOW OBTAINED. These buttons can be obtained from A. R. Neville, 516 Harrison street, Topeka, Kan., who has the emblem for sale, and who will fill all orders as promptly as possible.

By command of the Governor:

C. I. MARTIN,
The Adjutant General,
Chief of Staff.

OFFICIAL COPY.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in securing action on the part of company commanders in completing discharges for members of the State Guard mustered out on November 11, 1919, in pursuance of proclamation of the Governor. Of the 281 companies organized, commanding officers of 50 companies failed to complete muster-out rolls and discharges for their command. Concerning these companies the records of the Adjutant General's office are, therefore, incomplete, no evidence of final discharge being on file. The provisions of the Governor's proclamation fixing the date of final muster-out and discharge as of November 11, 1919, govern the matter, however, and service of officers and men in the State Guard is considered to have been terminated on that date.

The roster of Kansas State Guard units, organized during the period from February 15, 1918, to November 11, 1919, furnishing muster-out rolls, is set forth below.

ACTIVITIES.

April 26, 1918, the 3d Battalion furnished an escort for Secretary McAdoo on his visit to Wichita to aid the Third Liberty loan campaign. Company A furnished the commander and eighteen men.

May 30, 1918. Battalion acted as escort for selected service men from the city building to the depot, and escorted succeeding detachments as they departed for the cantonments. Company A furnished escorts and firing squads for twenty-one deceased soldiers.

This battalion furnished escort for General Wood on his visit to Wichita in aid of the Red Cross drive in May, 1918. A company's captain acted as personal aid.

Company A furnished working party to assist in getting the influenza hospital ready for handling patients. This work required ten days to complete.

This battalion furnished escort to attend General Leonard Wood on his visit to Wichita in aid of Liberty loan drive.

Company A assisted in war-saving drive, June 28.

The company furnished detachment for escort in receiving Colonel Roosevelt on his visit to Wichita in Liberty loan drive.

Company A took a conspicuous part in celebration of armistice on November 11, 1918.

The members of this company were ever faithful and ever ready to assist in all war work, and I can say that every officer and man gave his best service until either called to the colors or enlisted in the Kansas National Guard. I am positive that the men of this organization who entered the United States service were better qualified on account of the training received with the state guard.

ACTIVITIES.

At Paola, May 30, 1918, Company C participated in Memorial services with the Grand Army of the Republic.

On July 4, 1918, it was reviewed by Governor Capper and Adjutant General Charles S. Huffman at Olathe. Three battalions were present. Company C won first honors in the exhibition drill. The organization was well entertained with a fine dinner by the ladies of Olathe.

The organization went to La Cygne county fair on August 29, 1918, and in competition with several other state guard companies, won first prize—a large United States flag. We were splendidly entertained for dinner and supper by the Red Cross ladies of La Cygne.

The unit attended the Franklin county fair at Ottawa on September 18, 1918, and in competition with five state guard companies, it won first honors—a cash prize of $200.

On November 11, 1918, in Paola, the company had charge of celebrating the signing of the Armistice, and at night it went to Spring Hill and participated in the celebration at that place—a big time. The Kaiser was hanged and burned in effigy.

The company was never defeated in any competition and was always ready for a contest. On July 28 the company was called to protect the county jail against a threatened mob. Members responded well, but no mob appeared. The unit was called out again to run down train robbers. It was a fruitless chase, as the call came too late and the robbers escaped to Kansas City.

A full company was maintained from date of organization to muster-out. It was equipped with uniform, shoes, shirts, and forty old Springfield rifles. We had a fine armory, and entertainments were given to pay expenses. All debts were paid; $300 in treasury. Members have been loyal.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A drilled at least once each week. The 7th Battalion drilled two or three times a month, assisting in conducting officers and noncommissioned officers' school once each week. Men, subject to military service, were given fundamental training in the school of the soldier. Manual of arms, squad leading and all close-order drill in units up to the battalion. We took up guard duty, informal guard mount, bayonet work, and spent considerable time on open order drill, skirmish, etc. This instruction proved valuable to many of our men who were taken in the federal service. We assisted in Liberty loan and Red Cross drives and in various patriotic celebrations staged at different times and battalion parades. On the Fourth of July we passed in review before Governor Capper and Adjutant General Huffman. At various times we furnished guard details for government aeroplanes which alighted in this vicinity. The company furnished military escorts at two funerals of men who died in United States service, and escorts to various draft contingents as they were called. We furnished military police at several celebrations of various kinds and conducted several successful celebrations—one on the Fourth of July, and another on Armistice Day.

ACTIVITIES.

Company B drilled once a week. Average time put in at each drill, two hours. A battalion drill was held about twice per month. School for commissioned officers was held once each week; noncommissioned officers' school was held once each week. Acted as an escort to each contingent called into federal service from this county, and assisted in raising funds for the Red Cross, as well as participating in all Liberty loan parades. On Decoration Day the company acted under orders of the commanding officer of the Grand Army of the Republic, during their ceremonies. Guard duty was performed on several government aeroplanes, which landed at Olathe and stayed over night. As one of the units of the 7th Battalion, Company B passed in review before Governor Arthur Capper on July 4, 1918, at Olathe, Kan. Guard duty was performed on the several war exhibit trains while in Olathe.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C rounded up some pro-Germans and brought them to a patriotic speech at which the speaker solicited funds to help support the work of the Salvation Army at the "front."

The unit held a patriotic meeting at which local talent and a returned Canadian soldier gave rousing talks. The company gave an exhibition drill, served an "army style" dinner, and raised funds for local work. Patrolled elevators several nights at the time many were being burned over the country by the "pro" element; passed resolution and tried in several ways to suppress the use of the German language on the streets and in the community; caused the service of one camp meeting which was to have been given in the German language to be preached in English.

ACTIVITIES.

During its two years service, about 240 were enlisted in its ranks, and received various terms of military training, many of whom went into the United States army and navy, some into the National Guard, while others removing from the city carried their enthusiasm and experience to other units.

What constitutes a body of well disciplined men have continued in the service with a full complement of officers to answer as their names were called at final muster-out roll call.

COMPANY "B," 9TH BATTALION, TOPEKA—Concluded.

During its active service, over 100 regular company drills were held in which infantry drill was fairly well mastered and put into weekly practice.

The officers held frequent noncommissioned officers schools and the promotions were made upon proficiency and term of service.

In addition to its weekly (often twice a week) drills, Company B participated in over forty special patriotic events, sometimes with the entire battalion; but often alone, when the other companies could not respond.

These special occasions were parades, the guarding of troop trains, etc., incident to the going-away and the home-coming of soldiers, and in the many World War, Liberty loan, Red Cross drive campaigns, and Armistice and victory celebrations.

During the influenza epidemic, fall and winter of 1918-1919, Company B furnished the military escort, volley firing detail and bugler for full military honors at the funerals of numerous United States soldiers brought to Topeka for burial; and this was often at a time when the epidemic was so severe that indoor services were not held and only services at the grave permitted.

Company B furnished one major, five captains, eight lieutenants, two battalion color sergeants, three battalion supply sergeants, and one battalion sergeant major for state guard service, while several went from the company who obtained commissions and warrants in the United States army.

During its entire service, Company B maintained a complete and ever-ready unit of Kansas militia; and it never failed to respond to any call of duty, although it often caused much personal and business sacrifice.

While not permitted to go overseas it tried to keep "the home fires burning," and is proud of its record in having given the elementary military training to almost one hundred young men who went from its ranks into United States military service, some of whom served upon the historic battle fields of France.

Company B will always look back with satisfaction upon its humble service during the great World War, not because of what it did, but as to what it was willing to do had opportunity offered.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A drilled regularly once a week and in the fall of 1918 it drilled twice a week and took part in two contests at the county fairs. Four companies took part in these contests, Company A winning first place in one, and second place in the other.

The unit was ready to take part in a big Liberty loan meeting, but did not get to do so on account of the state ban during the influenza and all meetings were called off.

Company A had an auxiliary of ladies known as the "blue cross" which was drilled by the officers of the state guard. This society also assisted the Red Cross and gave the branch at Sylvan Grove $157.

ACTIVITIES.

This organization met for drill once every week and for battalion drill every two weeks, when weather conditions would permit. The period of drill was three hours.

We did no active guard duty, but always stood in readiness should the call come. The members helped with Red Cross and Liberty loan drives and were always on parade at any patriotic ceremony.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C, 12th Battalion, Kansas State Guard was never called upon or ordered to perform any guard duty.

The company paraded at the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the Smith county courthouse, 1918.

The organization actively supported Liberty loan drives and all Red Cross campaigns. Only one member of the company had experienced actual military service, but the company attained a good degree of efficiency in military drill.

ACTIVITIES.

The Kensington home guards were mustered into the service of the state as the Kensington State Guards on April 16, 1918. As the company had no funds available at the time of its organization, the individual members purchased their own uniforms and about three-fourths of the members purchased old army Springfield, so that the company was really an armed force and were able to master the "Manual of Arms."

The company was active in the various Liberty loans and Red Cross drives, and especially were we in evidence at the Red Cross auction at which over $4,000 was raised in Kensington and vicinity.

At the signing of the armistice the company had charge of the big community celebration. A grand barbecue was planned, at which the company roasted a large ox, erected stands and creditably served the mass of people gathered to vent their enthusiasm. Over $300 was raised for the Red Cross. The event of the evening was the burning of the Kaiser's palace.

Our company enjoyed the distinction of having one of the best bands in the state. This band, believing that they could be of greater service enlisted in the navy, and after a short term of training at the Great Lakes naval station they were chosen for service aboard the S. S. George Washington, which carried President Wilson and his party to and from Europe.

COMPANY "B," 13TH BATTALION, SMITH CENTER—Concluded.

ACTIVITIES.

This company took part as an organization in several service flag ceremonies at various churches over the county, and a patriotic service held in Smith Center, in June, 1918, at the time of the laying of the corner stone of the new court house.

The organization stood guard with full company on the night of November 5, 1918, during celebration of the signing of the Armistice in Smith Center; attended twelve soldiers' funerals in this county, giving such soldiers a full military burial, and going as far as the east side of Smith county to give one soldier his last rites.

The majority of this company showed a full willingness to give of their time and energy in any sacrifice necessary to build and maintain a high conception of the patriotic duties owed to their country, and to the brave boys in the service of their country. We materially assisted in developing in the hearts of all of our citizens of this community that fine spirit of sacrifice and assistance which was characteristic of all true American citizens, and, I believe, this company deserves special mention and credit for their part in moulding public sentiment in this community.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C took part, as an organization, in several flag ceremonies at the churches in the communities where the members resided, and had charge of Pawnee and Corn townships in Smith county in the drive for funds for the united war workers and made a creditable showing.

The unit stood guard, together with Company B, at Smith Center on the night of November 11, 1918.

With the exception of three or four members, this company was composed of farmers. Considering the shortage of help during the season of 1918, and the size and kinds of crops, the company deserves special praise for their devotion to the cause. When men have worked hard all day and all week, it takes one hundred per cent Americanism to inspire them to drive from five to ten miles to drill two or three hours of an evening, or on Sunday afternoons. Taken altogether, it is surprising that the attendance was as good as it was and gratifying to the officers that the organization made the progress it did.

ACTIVITIES.

The activities of this company were confined to elementary military training for the men about to enter United States service and enlisted men of the company. As chairman of the Christmas Red Cross roll call I used the individual members as far as possible. Our drilling was of one and one-half hours duration, twice a week.

ACTIVITIES.

While our Company E was not yet mustered in, we were organized, had our uniforms, and assisted in the third Liberty loan drive. The entire canvass for the fourth Liberty loan was conducted by our company. In all the drives in our locality we raised more than our quota.

All our members were members of the Red Cross, and as an organization, we assisted in raising the quota and also in the "Seven-in-One" drive. We conducted a military funeral to a soldier who died in Camp Funston and was buried at Winona. We took an active part in Memorial days and Fourth of July celebrations. Our company appeared in uniform at all public gatherings that were in any way related to the war, and on one occasion when Governor Capper spoke at our hall. We furnished an escort to Sharon Springs where the governor spoke in the evening. Company E always participated in the farewell or home-coming receptions given the soldiers, and encouraged and assisted in enlistments among our own company and among others. Four of our men entered the service, one of whom is overseas at this time. In certain localities pro-Germans, anti-war agitators, and slackers were numerous and through the efforts of our guard, these people gained a wholesome respect for our government and came forward and did their part financially in the prosecution of the war.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A participated in all public activities during 1918, and patrolled the streets on all holidays where it was necessary. The unit turned out in full force and escorted all contingents of drafted men to the training points; held regular drills every week, and on October 8, went into camp in Wright park at Dodge City with the other companies of the 16th Battalion, Kansas State Guard, expecting to stay four days, but the camp was ordered closed on the evening of the second day on account of the influenza. The company did guard duty at the Mexican camp for twenty-one days, said camp being quarantined on account of the influenza.

ACTIVITIES.

Company B drilled twice each week, commencing at seven and ending at ten. We executed squad drills and company drills.

The company was called into camp at Dodge City on October 8, 9, 10 and 11 by Major Evans. On account of the influenza the camp was disbanded the tenth.

At each call of government recruits the company would meet and escort them to the train. On October 8, 1918, three squads guarded the war-exhibit train in Cimarron.

Due to the fact that this unit was composed principally of farmers it was not called on to assist in the Liberty loan and Red Cross campaigns, but a majority of its personnel bought bonds and contributed to the drives very freely.

Each Decoration Day the company met and participated in the program as ordered by the governor.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C, 16th Battalion, Kansas State Guard was mustered into state service publicly on May 6, 1918, at a community meeting, and commenced its activities by drilling two and one-half hours each week, preparing for any emergency that might arise demanding their services, and by continuing such drills the company became efficient in the duties of the soldier.

On May 30, 1918, the company took part in the Decoration exercises at Bucklin, Kan., leading the procession to the Bucklin cemetery and firing a military salute in honor of the dead soldiers.

On September 12, 1918, the task of registering the eighteen- to twenty-one-year-old registrants in the Ford district was left to the company, and Captain Vernie C. Robb, commanding the company, was legally appointed as chief registrar, and was in supervision of the registration.

The company was also given charge of drilling and giving military instructions to the registered men before they were called to camp, and all registrants in the vicinity of Bloomington, Bucklin, and Ford, Kansas, were instructed to report at the armory of the company for instructions and drill each week until they were called to camp.

The company participated in the several drives for the war activities, such as the Red Cross, Liberty loans, Y. M. C. A., U. W. W. campaigns, and thrift-stamp sales, and took an active interest in promoting enlistments in the army.

Company C, Ford's unit of the 16th Battalion, Kansas State Guard, reported for duty at the armory, Thursday morning, October 8, 1918, at 7 a. m., and left for camp at Wright park in Dodge City, Kan., in the face of a prospective rain, which fortunately failed to dampen the spirits of the men. The advance guard of the company reached camp at 8:30 and found that Company A of Dodge City had been putting in the early hours to good effect in erecting down tents and policing the company street; the work was not very appealing to most of the boys, but it gave them a fine appetite for the chow, which the efficient kitchen force handed out at noon.

In the afternoon the regular routine work of an army camp was taken up, guard lines were established, and guards posted, who were in the main very efficient. Guard mounting the first day was held at 4:30 p. m., with Lieutenant Lyons of Company G as officer of the day. Guards were posted for the night, and it was soon time for mess call, which was answered with great enthusiasm. The battalion was formed before Major Richard W. Evans at 7 p. m., and with the exception of the guards they went into Dodge City and did police duty at the war trophy train sent out by the government in the interest of the fourth Liberty loan. It was estimated that over five thousand visited the train which the company assisted in handling and passing through the train. By midnight a reasonable degree of silence descended upon the camp and quiet reigned supreme until 5:30 Wednesday morning, when the rude strains of reveille aroused the sleepers from their peaceful slumbers to the work of the day. Military discipline was more of evidence the second day. During the day Captain Surgeon Coffman received word from Dr. S. J. Crumline, secretary of the State Board of Health that the government had signed a proclamation which would close all public gatherings for some time on account of the epidemic of Spanish influenza, and orders were promptly issued closing the camp to visitors and stopped the guards from leaving camp except on passes issued by the major. As soon as the quarantine was placed upon the camp, arrangements were made to break up the encampment, and the following day the company left for the army in Ford, Kan., arriving at 11 a. m., October 10, 1918.

The company was active in participating in parades and observing all patriotic movements, as well as assisting the local board of the county in handling the registrants when they were called to camp.

ACTIVITIES.

Company D participated in various parades at times of special demonstration in Liberty loan and Red Cross campaigns; acted as escort to Hon. Jouett Shouse and Governor Capper; gave exhibition drills Columbus Day and on other occasions; acted as military escort when two of our deceased soldier boys, from Spearville, were buried. Individual members were chosen for service as chairman and committees on Liberty loan and Red Cross campaigns and to serve as speakers for the National Council of Defense and Four-minute Men. The principal service rendered by the company was in giving preliminary training to something over fifty men who entered the military service of the United States from this locality.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C was not called into active service at any time. It took part in all the Liberty loan and Victory loan bond drives, Red Cross and other drives during the World War, and by its assistance, this community was always among the first to go "over the top" in all its drives.

The unit was active in recruiting for the army and navy during the war, and all its members who volunteered or answered the draft made excellent records in the United States service.

ACTIVITIES.

Company E participated in all patriotic parades and attended military funerals. A large proportion of the personnel assisted in all loan drives and war activity work.

Captain Brown, Privates Bailey and Brassfield worked two weeks in harvest fields when labor was scarce.

Members of company, being all traveling men, sacrificed much time in attending drills which were held on Saturday afternoons, and we had a well disciplined organization.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C was organized at a mass meeting on April 29, 1918. The unit drilled twice a week until the signing of the Armistice with an average attendance of over ninety per cent; this in view of the fact that fully one-half were farmers and very busy. The company took an active part in all Liberty loan and Red Cross drives and aided in enforcing the various war measures, such as the food regulations, etc.; did guard duty every night for several weeks, during the threshing season, when all the mills and elevators were full of wheat and at a time when many elevators were being burned by German sympathizers.

Company C conducted funerals, with full military honors, for all deceased soldiers of the United States army who were brought here for interment. Practically all men who went into the United States service from C company were appointed noncommissioned officers, due to the training they had received while members of the state guard.

ACTIVITIES.

Company B, Kansas State Guards, was composed of the common laboring class. On inquiry I learn that about sixty per cent of my men bought Liberty bonds of different denominations. Nearly all joined the Red Cross, and were active in all movements to aid in winning the war. Lieutenant Kimbrough and myself were special war deputies and we had the men to look sharp after pro-Germanism.

The company was drilled regularly twice a week all summer and fall until the influenza broke in on us. Company B was considered one of the best drilled units in the county. We performed no guard duty as there was none to do. The men were loyal, and could be depended on in any emergency.

ACTIVITIES.

Except for a few military funerals this organization took part in no war activities of a public nature, but its influence upon the community was far-reaching. By giving public drills and attending public gatherings, as an organization, it did much to quell the pro-German propaganda and at the same time arouse the dormant patriotism of our citizens. Many of the boys who went to the army received valuable preliminary training in our company.

We feel that in a measure we have kept the faith of our fathers.

ACTIVITIES.

The captain of this organization drilled the company nearly every evening until a full complement of officers were appointed and trained.

The company participated in every Red Cross and Liberty loan drive as individuals, and also as a company, besides attending all funerals of soldiers, which were conducted in military form.

On August 14, 1918, the bank of Greeley was robbed. The company with other citizens gave chase. Two of the company's men, Privates Rogers and Blair, were wounded. The captain placed a guard of four men at the bank building for four nights until the vault could be repaired.

On September 3, 1918, the company guarded the Missouri Pacific freight wreck at this place for twenty-four hours.

About thirty-five members of our company bought and paid for their own uniforms.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A, 22d Battalion, Kansas State Guard, was mustered in March 22, 1918, and on May 16, 1918, took an active part in the Red Cross drive, the company contributing $365. On May 30, by order of the governor, the company assembled and participated in the Decoration Day program. On September 4, 5 and 6, Companies A and B, 22d Battalion, held a three-day encampment at the Rooks county fair, doing guard duty, both for the city and fair association. The unit also participated in a battalion drill and took part in a comparative drill. The company drove to Logan on September 13, 1918, and participated in the battalion drill and ceremonies. In October all drill and other activity was stopped by the influenza, and the company was ordered mustered out April 29, 1919.

ACTIVITIES.

Company D participated in Red Cross relief work, and in removing debris after a tornado. The organization attended various meetings held in public halls and churches in the interest of a deeper patriotism, and reported regularly for drill, twice a week during the summer of 1918; did guard duty during the harvest time in the summer of 1918. Took part in the memorial services on Memorial days, and Memorial services held in honor of soldiers killed in action. The unit attended the funeral rites of Melvin LaRue, who died in hospital, Green Lakes training camp. Watched and kept down improper propaganda; fostered loyalty, and promoted patriotism throughout the community.

ACTIVITIES.

Company B performed guard duty twice; once at a fire, and at another time guarded government airplanes. It, also, took a prominent place in the program of a Red Cross picnic given for the purpose of raising funds. At this time we gave a sham battle which was quite an attraction and drew a large crowd. A number of the members at different time were the leaders in this county in soliciting for the Liberty loans and Red Cross.

The unit, also, on numerous occasions, acted as an escort for funerals, departing soldiers leaving to join the colors, and for soldier home-coming celebrations.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A held semiweekly drills. A weekly noncommissioned officers' school was held. A good interest was manifested by the personnel. During the later months, drill work was interfered with seriously by the influenza epidemic which prevailed. A fair degree of efficiency was reached in the drill movements. The members looked eagerly toward the time when they should be provided with arms, but they were disappointed in not receiving them. The company was fully uniformed and the expense of the same was borne by each individual member.

The company participated in several Liberty loan and Red Cross campaigns, battalion parades at Lyons, Sterling and Alden, and took a very prominent part in a local "peace celebration." The company served as police on Hallowe'en night, 1918, for the city of Sterling, and conducted one military funeral for a local soldier boy, who died in camp, and one for their own deceased member.

The organization participated in the exercises at the opening of the S. A. T. C. at Cooper College in Sterling, Kansas.

ACTIVITIES.

Company B held regular drills twice a week from the date of organization until October 15, 1918, at which all public gatherings were prohibited on account of the epidemic which passed over the country.

Company B, 24th Battalion, always turned out well to drills and the members seemed to take a great interest in the same.

There was to be a "home coming" or county fair at Lyons on October 17, 18 and 19, 1918, at which there was to be prizes given to the best drilled company of Rice county. Of course, company B expected to win the first prize and were working hard for it by drilling every night for three weeks previous, but the "home coming" was called off on account of the quarantine in October, 1918.

The 24th Battalion had several battalion dress parades and reviews at Lyons, which were attended by large crowds from all over the county, who seemed to be well pleased with the parade. Company B participated in several Liberty loan and Red Cross drives.

On November 11, 1918, company B took part in two large peace parades which were carried out very successfully.

ACTIVITIES.

Company B was not called on to do any special service, guard duty, etc. Several squads did duty as such both in Red Cross and Liberty loan campaigns.

The organization, also, conducted military funerals for two boys, of this place, who made the supreme sacrifice for our country, and attended the memorial services at the church and cemetery as a unit, and did the honors for our country's dead in a creditable way.

I am sure that company B would have shown the same spirit, had the opportunity presented itself as it did to our boys in the Argonne. They are true Americans and were ready for the call to active service.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A was originally organized on December 14, 1917, as the Seneca Home Guard, through the activity of its first captain, Clifford W. Baldwin, and continued as a company of the Home Guard until it was mustered in as a company of the Kansas State Guard, on April 14, 1918, Clifford W. Baldwin having been commissioned captain, who, together with Second Lieutenant Lon H. M. Williams and First Lieutenant Albert A. Reichart, subsequently resigned. Thereupon Lon H. M. Williams was commissioned captain and took charge of the company, with John Emery as first lieutenant and Roy D. Carpenter as second lieutenant. Upon the formation of the 27th Battalion, Kansas State Guard, Captain H. M. Williams was commissioned major, and Frank L. Geary was commissioned captain and took charge of the company.

Company A saw no active service and was not called upon for any service of a public nature other than guarding and assisting in a large Red Cross auction, and visiting a few who had refused to contribute to the allied war drive, because of the signing of the Armistice. Through our explanations and suggestions we obtained a largely increased, if reluctant, contribution to the fund.

Twelve members of the organization enlisted, or were inducted into military service; seven additional young men enlisted in the S. A. T. C. and since the date of the muster-out of the company, four other members have enlisted in the regular army.

ACTIVITIES.

The company drilled five months as Home Guards with two drills a week, and over an hour at each drill. Company A as State Guard, had uniforms, furnished by Major Zimmerman, and afterward paid for by the individual members. Number of regular drills held by Company A, sixty-one, which consisted of close order, extended order, guard duty, bayonet exercise, and ceremonies. Number of battalion drills, three; held by Goddard, Wichita, and Cheney. At these, close order, extended order, guard mount, and dress parade, also due honor paid to the band playing the National Anthem, and this was a thrilling treat to the spectators. The company attended the funeral of Floyd Bennett, a member of the Cheney company, and conducted the funeral of Lieutenant Cunningham, United States army, with full military honors. The company furnished guards for the town ten days, after two grain elevators had been set afire on the same day. Guards were furnished the city for twenty-seven days after the marshal was shot by a burglar. The guards were out looking for auto thieves at night on two occasions. The battalion major, without remuneration drilled the high-school students daily for a period of six months, and they became real snappy in the work. The school cadets aided in all the war drives. Five joined the army, although none were over eighteen years old.

ACTIVITIES.

February 10, 1918, Company A helped to promote a patriotic meeting, which was addressed by Dr. Frank Loveland, in which $370 was raised to supply ambulances to go to France.

February 16, 1918, a pro-German near Blue Rapids had become rather bold in his utterances against our country. The guard went to his home and brought him to the Commercial Club rooms. He was persuaded to kiss the flag, swear allegiance to the United States, and to pay $100 to the Red Cross. This prompt action of the guard checked pro-Germanism and aided in the collection of the Red Cross funds.

February 14, 1918, attended a patriotic meeting at the Methodist church as an organization.

March 21, 1918, the prisoners having broken out of the county jail at Marysville, the sheriff called on Company A for help to guard bridges to the south. Guards were posted on three road bridges and one railroad bridge all night.

March 31, 1918, there were rumors of pro-Germanism at the dedication of a German church some miles south of Blue Rapids. Company A hiked out that way and drilled near while several guards, in plain clothes, who understood German, attended the services and reported nothing wrong.

April 6, 1918, gave a parade and attended in a body a patriotic meeting, addressed by J. E. Nugent, of Kansas City.

May 30, 1918, took charge of Decoration Day services.

June 8, 1918, attended the funeral, at Bremen, of Fred Rengstrof, a soldier who died at Funston.

June 30, 1918, attended the Memorial services at Irwin for Lieutenant Milton Drumm, the first Marshall county soldier killed in France; also participated in battalion drill.

July 7, 1918, gave drill and took part in Red Cross drive.

July 10, 1918, the city water pump was broke, and the guard patrolled the city as a measure of fire protection.

July 14, 1918, attended a Red Cross rally at Bremen and took part in an exhibition and battalion drill.

July 28, 1918, was reviewed and inspected by Adjutant General Charles S. Huffman at Frankfort.

September 25, 1918, gave military funeral to George Adams, a member of the company.

October 8 and November 11, 1918, the Marshall county State Guard was reviewed and inspected at Blue Rapids, by Captain C. A. Dempsey, 164th Depot Brigade, Camp Funston; also took part in competitive drill; took charge of policing the grounds for the Marshall county fair and participated in the fourth Liberty loan drive.

October 26, 1918, gave a military funeral to William Netz at Irving, a soldier who died at Funston, also a former member of Company A.

November 10, 1918, gave a military funeral to Myron Swank at Cottage Hill, who was a former member of Company A and had just enlisted in the national service.

November 30, 1918, gave a military funeral to J. M. Snodgrass, a Civil War veteran.

February 4, 1919, promoted and attended in a body a lecture by Trooper O'Conner.

February 9, 1919, attended the Roosevelt memorial services at the Presbyterian church in the morning and the Lincoln memorial at the Baptist church in the evening.

March 31, 1919, gave a military funeral to Major John McPherson, a Civil War veteran.

April 7, 1919, gave a military funeral to Charles Edinborough, a Civil War veteran.

May 30, 1919, took charge of Decoration Day services.

September 20, 1919, auto was stolen at Marysville. The guard turned out to assist the marshal and guarded the roads. We recovered the automobile at Blue Rapids, but the thief got away. Investigated several fires caused from trains in grain fields, also notified the state marshal of one incendiary fire of grain stacks, who sent a man to investigate, made an arrest, but the case has not yet been tried.

ACTIVITIES.

This company was organized as Home Guard, November, 1917, and reorganized into State Guard, February 15, 1918. The unit held regular drills twice weekly for the entire company, and officers' school each week until June 20. For two weeks prior to that date the company drilled daily, and discontinued drill thereafter for three weeks, while squads went to the surrounding farms each evening to assist in harvesting and threshing the wheat crop. Exhibition drills were held on all legal holidays, either at the armory or in surrounding towns. A participated in the battalion drill at Lindsborg, Kan., on September 2, 1918, and was reviewed by Adjutant General Charles S. Huffman at that time. Our company furnished twenty-five United States service men, several of whom won early promotions by virtue of the proficiency in drill attained while members of this company. The grain elevators and warehouses at this point were guarded by this company thirty consecutive nights while stocks of foodstuffs were largest, during the months of July and August, 1918, members being on duty in two details of four men each; each detail on duty four hours nightly. Assisted at the burial of two deceased soldiers, one S. A. T. C. student, and one member of this company. Company A was the first company organized in this county; the officers were directed by the adjutant general to assist in the organization of other companies in the county. Assistance in this respect was rendered at both Moundridge and Inman.

ACTIVITIES.

Company F participated in a Red Cross sale which was held at Inman in May, 1918. It was a decided success and was due mostly to the hard work of the company.

The unit, also, took an active part in the various drives in the interest of the Red Cross, Liberty loans and other war activities.

In August, 1918, the Guard went on a seven mile hike to the Little Arkansas river, where the boys received a little touch of camp life.

The company had charge of the celebration on signing of the Armistice. A big bonfire in the evening and the band of our organization gave a concert.

On Memorial Day, 1918, the guard marched to the cemetery and decorated the old soldiers graves and held short services. The guard also conducted a military funeral on April 1 for an old veteran, William K. Heller, who passed away on March 31.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C held drill regularly twice every week during the spring and summer months until the fall of 1918. During the fall drill was held regularly once every week up to the time of the signing of the Armistice. Battalion drill was held regularly every four weeks. W. The organization was at all times active in keeping the city and community rid of I. W. W.'s and pro-Germans.

A company contest drill was held at Rush Center in the fall and Company C secured the second prize, which was a United States flag.

The organization took an active part in assisting with the Liberty loan and Red Cross drives. Captain Brenner was township chairman during each of the bond drives.

The company has $18.52 on hand which will be turned over to the local Red Cross organization. This money was obtained by a dance given in the city of McCracken by the company.

Each member of this organization purchased his own uniform and no assistance was received from the outside.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A held drills twice every week with a very good attendance until the time of the signing of the Armistice. Battalion drills were held in Ellis, Wakeeney and Hays City, and in each case our company turned out the largest representation. The organization also attended the battalion drill at the Rooks county fair held at Stockton.

Members of the company took a very active part in all war activities, and turned out well to public celebrations of all kinds, in connection with Red Cross, War Saving Stamps, Liberty loans, Memorial Day services, Fourth of July, Home Coming and Armistice day celebrations.

A firing squad from this company has always been present at all funerals of Grand Army of the Republic veterans, members of the guard, and late war soldiers.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C commenced drilling on August 2, 1918. The organization was equipped with regular uniforms. Attended battalion drill at towns during fairs. Only stopped drilling once a week when influenza epidemic struck us. Was ready at all times to put down any pro-German argument. Put German schools out of business, and incidentally saw that German sympathizers kept their place or left town.

ACTIVITIES.

Company D, 40th Battalion, was the main leader in practically all war activity campaigns. This town went over the top every time, and whenever a time came that the company was needed it was at their service. We have taken a small detail of men several times and gone out and got money for these campaigns from those who refused to pay the leader, such as slackers. It was reported to me that there was a German preacher at the town of Carneiro, who was teaching music, and that he was using such pieces as the German national hymns. I took a small squad and went after this man, took him into Ellsworth and turned him over. Later he was forced to leave.

Last summer the company put in two hard nights of drilling every week and participated in every parade held by the battalion.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C held regular meetings every week, and drills for a period of several months. A number of the members of the company gained some knowledge of military training which stood them in good stead when they entered the service of the United States army. Uniforms were provided the personnel of the company by Guittard township and Marshall county, each defraying half the expense thereof. The company took active part in services and activities incident to the World War, such as Liberty Loan, Red Cross, registrations, etc. The organization participated in a battalion drill at Frankfort, which was reviewed by Adjutant General Huffman.

ACTIVITIES.

From date of the organization of this company until after the signing of the armistice the company drilled, as a unit, regularly three times each week. Shortly after this, because of the epidemic of contagious disease, a ban was placed on the community by the local board of health prohibiting public gatherings. After this ban was lifted the company met regularly in school of instruction and interior guard duty. The company took part in two battalion reviews. As opportunity offered the company participated in Red Cross activities, and took the leading part at home in peace celebrations, also away from home. The organization took an active part in six funerals of deceased soldiers, and rendered every service possible.

ACTIVITIES.

Company A held biweekly drills; participated in Memorial Day and Fourth of July activities; guarded Liberty loan train. Assisted in Liberty loan, Red Cross and other campaigns; bought Liberty bonds as a company. The unit assisted at funerals of deceased soldiers and acted as escort for returning soldiers. Maintained an armory at company expense, and disbanded with $150 in company treasury. Participated in social functions. Enjoyed our service, did some good, we believe, and learned some things. Ready to serve again if we are needed.

ACTIVITIES.

Company C attended four military funerals, and participated in Decoration Day services. Attended the meeting and celebration at Olathe, July 4. Hunted bank robbers one day as a unit. Attended the competitive drill at Ottawa, battalion drill at Osawatomie, also held battalion drill at this place. The organization assisted in all Liberty loan and Red Cross drives. The company drilled regularly every Wednesday night, and part of the time twice a week. Had noncommissioned officers' school once a week for three months. Drill was suspended after the signing of the Armistice on account of having no armory accommodations and the lack of proper clothing for outside drill.

ACTIVITIES.

This company performed no active service, neither did it participate in any war activities, Liberty loan, and Red Cross drives as a company; many of the men took part personally. We furnished seven details, such as firing squads for funerals and funeral escorts; drilled once a week and many times twice a week from May until the Armistice was signed, then attendance was poor as the influenza was raging and many were afraid to come out to drill.

The organization was ready at all times to assist wherever needed, but the opportunity never presented itself.

ACTIVITIES.

This company was mustered into service June 14, 1918. It rendered services at funerals of three deceased soldiers and one company boy; drilled twice a week, with an average attendance of seventy-eight members. The unit gave six exhibition drills at other towns, and met all returning soldiers. The organization was active in Liberty loans, Red Cross campaigns, and other services of public nature. The captain visited all who refused to contribute above loans. After explaining conditions he found only one citizen who refused to contribute to any cause. Had an excellent band consisting of twenty-two pieces; largest company in the county; largest in line at all battalion drills. Company consisted of ninety per cent farmers, who were enthusiastic over the success of the company. Uniforms were purchased by the company. At the request of the majority of the company, Adjutant General C. I. Martin saw fit to discharge Company C, 24th Battalion, February 17, 1919.

ACTIVITIES.

This company assisted in all Liberty loan campaigns; conducted a regular drill every Monday night; furnished guards of honor at the funerals of the deceased soldiers, and acted as guards when the war plane in connection with the fourth Liberty loan campaign landed here. The organization participated in opening united war work drive at Melvern, Kan., and other points in the county; acted as guards when thousands of people gathered on November 11, 1918, to celebrate the signing of the Armistice. Despite the great excitement during this celebration not an accident occurred. We assisted in getting recruits for the national army and rendered every service possible during the influenza epidemic. The influence of the officers and enlisted men were placed behind every patriotic movement during the period of the war.

ACTIVITIES.

In July, 1919, the company participated in the muster-in of the company of State Guards at Scammon, and in August, 1918, the company assisted in the muster-in of the company at Columbus, and took part in battalion review. During months of August and September the company guarded a number of government airplanes in Pittsburg. In October, 1918, the company took part in a review of battalion at Pittsburg. At this time the company was reviewed by Governor Arthur Capper. The company drilled two nights every week, for about two hours, from July 15, 1918, until about the middle of October, when drilling was stopped on account of epidemic of influenza. A noncommissioned officers' school was held once every week.

ACTIVITIES.

This company was organized by Capt. Earl Ross and Lieut. C. W. Claybaugh and was not mustered in by a recruiting officer, as the Armistice was signed before we could have it done. Captain Berry of Hutchinson was to have done this.

This company drilled every Monday night from July 15, 1918, until November 11, 1918, and it can be said that its active presence made a decided impression in this particular vicinity, which is mostly German.

ACTIVITIES.

Hon. J. G. Strong, of Blue Rapids, was present at the mustering-in of the company and made a stirring, patriotic address to the crowd of nearly 500 people who had assembled for the occasion.

Details were made for every Liberty loan drive, also Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross campaigns, to control autos and otherwise keep the place of meetings quiet that the speakers might have every opportunity to present the cause to the people. The township did not fail to meet its quota in any campaign.

On October 19, 1918, a squad, in charge of Corporal Hedke, attended the funeral of Private Gust Emanuel Gustafson, N. A., who died on October 15, at Camp Funston, of influenza and pneumonia. They acted as pallbearers and escort; no salute being fired because of rule of cemetery.

October 25 the company attended the funeral of Max H. Weber of our company who was accidentally killed by his own gun while trying to protect his poultry from rodents. The company acted as escort and provided pallbearers and fired a salute at the grave. The company also dug the grave, provided the uniform for burial and a flag to cover the casket.

October 29, 1918, a squad, in charge of the commanding officer, attended the funeral of Private Ernest Joseph Behn, who died at Camp Doniphan, October 25, of influenza. This squad traveled sixteen miles through deep mud, by team, marched a mile leading the procession to the cemetery, fired the usual salute and returned home, making a trip of 32 miles for the occasion.

November 11, 1918, the company led a parade of school children and citizens in celebration of the signing of the Armistice with the central powers.

December 22, the company attended the funeral of Private Leonard Larson of our company, who died December 18, of pneumonia. Pallbearers were provided, a uniform and a flag, and the company escorted the procession to the cemetery, marching first to the church, in all, two miles of march, on a very cold day.

February 5, 1919, a squad in charge of the captain attended the funeral of Edward Secrest, a veteran of the Civil War, a respected and honored citizen. The flag was placed at half mast, before the services, on the flag pole in front of the deceased's residence and it remained until sundown. The company provided pallbearers and Grand Army of the Republic members acted as honorary pallbearers. The customary salute at the grave and sounding of taps.

March 17, 1919, the company, assisted by the local Red Cross auxiliary, conducted a public reception for returned soldiers, about 300 people being present. Captain Lee DeArmond of the 117th Ammunition Train was present and made a very interesting address.

Decoration Day, May 30, was observed by the company with a public program in the cemetery in which the schools and public joined us.

July 16, 17 and 18, a reunion for returned soldiers, which was largely attended. A recruiting train from Camp Funston in charge of Lieutenant Colonel Lemmon attended this reunion.

ACTIVITIES.

The company participated in several public functions, such as flag raisings, public funerals, Red Cross work; in fact, the company was on hand whenever there was anything doing. It conducted military funerals for members of our company who died and assisted at the funerals of several of the boys who died in the various military camps. No one ever asked in vain for the services of Company A, Kansas State Guard. We were ready, day or night, to do what could be done to the best of our ability, and I wish to state that it is a great pleasure to have had the honor of commanding this company.

ACTIVITIES.

The Winfield company, Kansas State Guard, was called upon to perform guard duty at nights at the library in this city, which was at that time headquarters for the Cowley chapter of the Red Cross. This duty was performed throughout the spring and summer of 1918. The company was also called out upon several occasions to do guard duty over the mills and wholesale groceries of the city upon occasions which were deemed advisable. As the individuals of the organization were nearly all members of the local committee to work for the Liberty loans, Red Cross and other campaigns, the organization did not take part in any of these campaigns as a unit. The company was also called out for duty in connection with the work of these campaigns, at one time to perform guard duty and handle the crowd at a war exhibition train, and at another time to guard a government airship which remained in town some twenty-four hours.

All other work was of a routine nature, the company drilling once a week regularly, until after the Armistice was signed. A good attendance was the rule and consequently the men progressed nicely in close order drill and were given considerable work in extension order formation, guard duty, etc.
